

ANTHROPOLOGICAL LINGUISTICS

Information for Contributors

Manuscripts for publication, exchange journals, and books for review should be sent to Anthropological Linguistics, Indiana University, Student Building 130, 701 E. Kirkwood Avenue, Bloomington, IN 47405-7100 USA. Manuscript articles should be submitted in three copies, book review manuscripts in two copies. A style sheet is available upon request.

Manuscript Form. Manuscripts must be double-spaced throughout (including quotations, tables, references, and notes) with at least one inch margins on 8½" x 11" paper. All pages must be continuously paginated.

Abstract. Each article manuscript must have at its outset, immediately after the title and author's name, an abstract no longer than 100 words summarizing the conceptual content of the article.

Text. Anthropological Linguistics follows The Chicago Manual of Style. For exemplification of all matters of style, authors should consult a recent issue of the journal. A style sheet is available upon request.

Citations. Citations in the text are indicated parenthetically. When an author's name is mentioned in the text, dates and pages immediately follow the author's name, e.g., Boas (1940:2-35). Otherwise a citation to authors and their words appear within parentheses, usually at the end of the sentence, e.g., (Boas 1940:2-35).

Notes. Explanatory notes appear at the end of the text, immediately preceding the list of references.

References. Complete references to all works cited in an article or review should appear in a bibliography at the end of the manuscript. This section, entitled, References, should include only works cited in the manuscript. The style follows a modified version of that used in the American Anthropologist, listing publication dates indented under authors' names, with titles and publication information blocked to the right of the date.
