From the University of London Library, this collection comprises personal and business papers of William Hewitt, 1719-8, commissioner and landowner in the East Indies. It spans the period of the American Revolutionary War when the West Indies played an important role in the naval conflict.

Papers Relating to the Providence Island Company and Colony , 1630-1641.

The Providence Island Company was founded in 1630 by a group of Puritan grandees as an attempt to confront national enemy, Spain, and begin the building of a foundation for English economic independence. Surviving papers include the records of company meetings, official and unofficial letters and reports and the diary of the last governor, Captain Nathaniel Butler. The colony was a failure, "extinguished" by the Spanish in 1641, but it strengthened the idea of a strong English presence in the West Indies.
