Information for Contributors

Cultural Anthropology, the journal of the Society for Cultural Anthropology, welcomes contributions of relevance to cultural studies broadly conceived. Articles, while presenting research results, should develop general theoretical implications and larger issues of debate. Articles may vary widely in length; very long pieces will be published as space permits. Shorter pieces might include critical essays, interviews, commentaries, discussions, and brief translations. Substantive reports on informal seminars, discussion groups, and intellectual events are also welcome, as are long review essays (15–25 manuscript pages) in which the reviewer develops an original argument through the critique of and reaction to one or more works of significance to cultural studies.

Submit four copies of manuscripts to the editor, at the address listed below. Scholars based outside the United States and Canada, and independent scholars in the United States and Canada, may submit a single copy of their manuscripts. Authors who wish to have their manuscript returned must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Manuscripts must be typed and double spaced, including quotations and excerpts, notes, references, tables, and figure captions. Use one side of 8 1/2-by-11-inch or A-4 white bond paper (do not use erasable or onionskin paper). Margins throughout the manuscript (top, bottom, and both sides) must be at least one inch; the right margin should not be justified.

Manuscripts submitted to Cultural Anthropology should not be under simultaneous consideration by any other journal or have been published elsewhere. Manuscripts are reviewed anonymously. Include a separate sections beginning on new pages a title page, with the complete title and the author(s) name and affiliation, the article text; notes; references; figure captions; and each table. All pages of the manuscript should be numbered consecutively. The author(s) should not be identified except on the title page.

References. All entries in the reference list must be cited in text, and vice versa. In text, references are cited in parentheses, with last name(s), year of publication, and, where necessary, page numbers. The reference list should be in AAA style: ordered alphabetically by author’s last name; author on one line; primary author’s last name first; date of publication on the next line, followed by title and then publisher’s city and name.

Tables. Number tables consecutively in the order in which they appear in text. Each table should have a caption. The caption and body of the table should be double spaced.

Figures. Artwork for figures must be camera ready—that is, a photographic print of line art, such as a map, graph, or drawing, or a photograph. Xerographic copies are not sufficient.
