INSTRUCTIONS FOR AUTHORS

The Journal of Anthropological Research publishes articles emphasizing theoretically informed original research in all areas of anthropology relating to peoples and cultures, past and present, in any region. It provides a peer reviewed vehicle of expression for anthropologists worldwide. Volunteered articles should be problem oriented and of general interest.

Manuscripts should be sent to the Editor, JAR, Department of Anthropology, University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, NM 87131 -1561, USA. Reviewers’ comments may be sent to authors at the Editor’s discretion.

Manuscripts, not to exceed 30 pages of text, must be printed single-sided on 8½ x 11 inch or A4 paper with at least one-inch (2.5 cm) margins on all sides. All text (plus abstract, tables, figure captions, quotations, references and endnotes) must be double-sided and printed using no smaller than 12-point (12 characters/spaces per inch) typeface. Each submission must include 6-8 keywords and an abstract, not to exceed 150 words. Submit 4 complete copies of each manuscript to the editor for review. These will not be returned to the author. Do not submit via e-mail.

Once an article has been accepted for publication (normally after revision), the author(s) will be asked to provide a clean electronic copy of the text file via e-mail or on floppy, zip disk or cd, along with a single, final printout. Only camera-ready copies of illustrations will be accepted; do not include tables or figures in the text file. Submit double-spaced tables on paper. Do not incorporate graphics boxes or characters in the file: non-European languages must be in roman rather than phonetic letters, and symbols or equations must be in standard text fonts rather than graphic format. Please turn off all special formatting; no “widow/orphan” protection, no end-of-page hyphenation, no headers or footers other than simple pagination (which is required).

Bibliographical references are to be included in the text by citing within parentheses: the author’s last name, date of source, and page or inclusive pages: e.g., (Boas 1910:274). Short quotations of 2-3 lines should be enclosed in quotation marks and incorporated in the text; longer ones are to be indented without using quotation marks. References Cited should begin on a new page and, starting immediately, must follow the style used in Current Anthropology (University of Chicago Press), with the following modifications: author names are to be given in upper/lower case letters; the nature of “n.d.” citations must be given in parentheses at the end: e.g., (in press), (in preparation), (submitted for review), (unpublished manuscript). italicize names of journals and books. All items cited in the text—and only these items—are to be included in the list of references. References not in modified Current Anthropology format will not be accepted.

If an author feels it necessary to use notes to provide acknowledgments, auxiliary comments or information, they should be referenced consecutively in the text and placed at the end of the text and before the reference list. Endnotes should be included as text rather than as “footnote/endnote” options. They must not exceed 2 double-spaced 12-point pages.

Tables are to be double-spaced, with each table titled, numbered, and typed on a separate page. Figures, including maps and other illustrative material, must be numbered and captioned. A complete list of figure captions should also be included at the end of the text file. Each figure is to be placed on a separate page. Illustrative material, including lettering, must be to professional standard and in camera-ready form. Marginal notations in the text should indicate the placement of both tables and figures.

The Editor reserves the right to make corrections and alterations considered necessary. Authors will be required to assign copyright to the University of New Mexico. Offprints are available to authors at cost and may be ordered at the time that the copy-edited printout is sent to them for correction. Proofs are not sent to authors.
