Reflections on National Imagination in Taiwan

Globalization is analyzed along four economic globalization and internationalization lines found that globalization has had a profound impact on the imagination of their nation, leading to rising aspirations. Nationwide, nation-building efforts have deepened, and where globalization itself is being employed, in order to construct the nation. Three implications "Taiwan (the Republic of China)" and the "national" be recontextualized, comprehended against a global/international frame of reference. The title depends upon the imagined or real approval of the national movement to new ground upon which the nation can be constituted. Institutional prerogatives of nations and the increased desire for nationhood and nationbuilding have not been fully realized.

Time Religion in the Present Age

The recent turn of Maritain on the question of a local into a global phenomenon, drawing on the fact that our civilization is "universalistic" in its historical and geographical development, global pilgrimage, century through the Internet, and the Vatican's 1995 case study, the article argues for the need to reinterpret the term "religion" in a new context. The article takes into account the relationship between the local and the global and the mediating agencies.

Notes for Contributors

Articles published in Theory, Culture & Society are refereed. The refereeing process normally takes 3-4 months. Contributors can submit articles in any major language. The language of publication is English. Submitted articles are refereed and considered for publication on the understanding that they are not under consideration elsewhere. Please attach to every submission a letter confirming that all authors have agreed to the submission and that the article is not currently being considered for publication by any other journal.

Articles should generally contain between 5000 and 7000 words. Shorter commentaries of 2000-3000 words are also invited.

Preparation of Manuscripts

Authors should send the manuscript together with an abstract of 50-100 words plus 3-5 keywords as either an email attachment to tcs@staa.ac.uk and/or on disk — our preferred format is Microsoft Word for Windows. Text should be accompanied by three hard copies. To protect anonymity, only the title should appear on the manuscript and the abstract. All authors' names and affiliation should accompany each manuscript.

All copies, including indented matter, notes and references, should be double spaced and on one side of the page, with the word copies run-off on A4 paper. The number and length of notes should be strictly limited. They should be numbered serially and included at the end of the text before the references section.

Line diagrams should be presented as camera-ready copies on glossy paper (b/w, unless to be reproduced - by arrangement - in colour) and, if possible, as EPS files (all fonts embedded) or TIFF files, 800 dpi - b/w only. For scanning, photographs should preferably be submitted as clear, glossy, unmounted b/w prints with a good range of contrast or on disk as TIFF files, 300 dpi.

Format of References in the Text

Identify all references to books, monographs, articles and other sources at an appropriate point in the text: the author(s)' names, year of publication and page numbers where appropriate. In all instances, specify subsequent citations of the same source similarly; do not use "ibid." or "loc. cit."

If the author's name is not in the text, use only the year of publication in parentheses, e.g. Archer (1986).

If the author's name is not in the text, include both the author's name and year of publication separated by a comma within the parenthetical, e.g. (Elgin, 1982). Pagination follows year, e.g. (Williams, 1981: 45-6) With dual authorship give both names, for three or more use et al., e.g. (Fustel and Cury, 1967) and (Bennett et al., 1986). Note that there is no more than one reference to the same author and year, distinguish between them by use of the letters 'a', 'b', etc. attached to the year of publication, e.g. (Foucault, 1975a). A series of references should be enclosed within a single pair of parentheses, separated by semicolons, e.g. (Bozhenov, 1984; B.Maggio, 1987; Lamont, 1988).

Format of Reference Lists

List all entries cited in the text or any other items used to prepare the manuscript, alphabetically by author and year of publication in a separate, headed, reference section. Please follow the examples given by Bauman, Ziegmont (1990) "Is There a Postmodern Sociology?", Theory, Culture & Society 7(2-3): 217-37.

Format of Quotations within the Text

For quotations within the text, please use single inverted commas on all occasions, except for a quotation within a quotation, where double inverted commas should be used. Quotations longer than approximately 40 words should be typed in an indented paragraph format, without the use of inverted commas.

Authors will receive proofs of their articles and, on publication, ten free offprints and a copy of the journal. Authors should obtain permission from copyright holders for reproducing any illustrations and lengthy quotations previously published elsewhere.
